

ABSTRACT

In the present invention, only an abnormality of detection of a rotating direction of a motor is detected and therefore, with simple processing and by using a table for judging the abnormality of the detection of a rotating direction of a motor and the rotating direction of the motor, the abnormality of the detection of a rotating direction and the rotating direction of the motor are judged at one time.